WOMAN CYCLIST HURT BY FALLING TIMBERS.

Wife of Professor Reynolds, of a Pennsylvania Theological Seminary.

Unmindful of Peril, She Rode Directly in Front of the Tottering Section of the Structure.

HER HUSBAND ESCAPED UNHARMED.

He, Too, Was Mounted and Was Leading the Way-Foreman in Charge of the Work of Demolition Arrested, but Soon Regained His Liberty.

Mrs. A. W. Reynolds, wife of the Rev. A. W. Reynolds, of Chester, Pa., lies in the Hudson Street Hospital suffering from what may prove fatal injuries received in an unusual manner while riding a bleycle yesterday. A section of an old dock building, in West street, near Dey, fell upon her while she was passing and fractured her ribs. Her wheel was wrecked.

Mrs. Reynolds was riding with her husband. They came to New York Sunday from New Haven, Conn., where they had been visiting. They mounted their wheels to go to the pier of the Starin Transportation Line, where some of their baggage was stored in the offices of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Rallroad. A new building was completed by the Starin Company recently and the old one in front is in a state of demolition. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds rode from Dey street Into West about 11:30 o'clock and steered for the gateway and passage leading to the new building. The minister was leading. Just as he passed the gateway there was a crush. Turning his head quickly, he saw his wife struggling beneath a mass of debris. He dismounted and rushed to the spot where she lay, and, with Policeman John Crean, who saw the accident, began to release his wife. Fortunately she had not been struck by heavy timbers, but was merely planed to the earth by boards that held the large piliars together. Although unconscious when extricated, she was still breathing. Three of her ribs were broken, her head bruised and she may be internally injured.

Alexander Y. Newkirk, the foreman of the men at work tearing down the old structure, was arrested, but was released, after a hearing before Magistrate Wentworth, the evidence being to the effect that Mrs. Reynolds darted into the pres-

Mrs. Jennie Goldberg, of No. 194 Allen street, was arraigned in the Essex Market ourt yesterday on the charge of soliciting. She carried a four-month-old infant in her arms and was accompanied by her husband. She told Magistrate Brann that her arrest was occasioned by spite on the part of the housekeeper of the premises. She had marrelled with him last week and caused his arrest. He was fined $10, and then de-

When O'Brien was taken to the station house he was informed of his victim's death. He expressed little regret. He first refused to talk about the trouble, but finally declared that he had strock the blow in self-defence.

"Ollver first situacked me with a large kulfe," he said, "and I only swang my arm to warfal it off."

The police do not believe the dead man had a kulfe, as none was found. When O'Brien was taken before Justice Lemon, in the Even Street Police Court, vestexiar, morning, he was remanded to jail without ball to answer a charge of manshaughter. Dr. Valenthu made an autopsy on the body vesterday, and said that death had been due to heart failure, superinduced by the bolow. Mrs. Oliver is prosurfated over the tragedy, and the family are said to be in an almost destitue condition. Concern Nason will hold the inquest Friday night. Robert J. Filzsimmons, champlon puglist of the world, was asked last night concerning the possibility of a man being killed by a blow of the fist.

"I do not believe," he said, "a man who was a long neck by hitting him on the side of it. In that case I think his neck would be broken. As for killing a man by striking him on the polat of the chin or on the face, I do not believe I can be done.
